SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1860.

Circulate the Documents!

In view of the great importance of having correct information circulated among the people previous to the election, we propose to furnish the Sentinel for the campaign, from the present time until after the Presidential election in November, at the reduced rate of Seventy-Five Cents a copy—payable in advance.

We ask the co-operation of our democratic friends throughout the country in extending our circulation, feeling confident that in no other way can they better aid the success of the democratic cause. Three or four hundred additional subscribers might be obtained, if every one of our present number would make the effort and urge his neighbors to subscribe. We will allow a commission of 10 per cent. on all amounts paid us by those who choose to interest themselves in our behalf.

Proposed Change of the Nation's Current on to Baltimore.—Owing to the limited hotel accommodations at Charleston, and the difficulty, if not impossibility, of accommodating, or bearing the vast crowd of persons expected at the Democratic Convention, it is in contemplation to hold the Convention at Baltimore. The plan proposed is, to have an informal meeting at Charleston, and adjourn to Baltimore. This we think advisable, as it would be impossible for the attendants at the convention to find quarters at Charleston, and it also appears that the most expeditious charges would be made—from $7.00 to $10.00 per day, are spoken of for board, and $20 to $25 extra for a parlor or sitting room. Besides this, the people of South Carolina do not care about holding National Conventions; and it is only occasionally that they condescend to send delegates, or take any part in the proceedings. It was a great mistake to select Charleston as the place, and we think the proposed change decried and commendable.

A Committee appointed by the National Democratic Committee is now in Baltimore making the necessary inquiries as to accommodations, charges, &c. The hotel keepers promise to provide for all who come at the regular rate of charges, besides which the well known hospitality of its citizens ensures the opening of their doors to all who cannot be suitably accommodated at the hotels. Let the Convention be held at Baltimore, or some other city large enough to accommodate the vast crowd who will be in attendance.

The Cry of Step Thief!—The Republicans are now busily engaged in raising the cry of corruption in the Democratic party, and hope to catch the votes of many honest, unsuspecting men, who are opposed to official extravagance and corruption—and at the same time a too close scrutiny of their own acts whenever and wherever they have been in power. It was the Republicans who overwhelmed this State in debt and difficulty, and brought it to the verge of bankruptcy, when they were in power in Indiana, and they are now the loudest in the cry of Democratic corruption and extravagance. This is the old step thief game which that party is so celebrated for playing, and which they always engage in when they are afraid their own past history may be too rigidly inquired into.

In the political history of the Republican party—says the Boston Courier—there has been one most remarkable fact, which is, while that party has been professedly dedicated to a mischievous and meddlesome agitation of the slavery question, it has under cover of that agitation been guilty of the most flagrant and wholesale corruption in the management of those State Governments of which, by means of that agitation, it has obtained the control. Maine, Massachusetts, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, are but examples among others, which constantly occur to the memory. It would seem as if all that was corrupt in society in the northern states had conspired to mask its mercenary purposes by diverting attention from things at home to the south. Their attention to the southern states. The attention of all conservative men has long been fixed upon this as one of the most alarming incidents of the present political condition of the southern states.

Accommodating.—It is rumored that the Democratic Members of Congress met in caucus on Tuesday evening, and decided that Breckinridge would be the candidate for President, and Ex-Governor Seymour, of New York, for Vice President. This is certainly very accommodating in these gentlemen; the Senate has already decided on a platform for the party, and now the Representatives kindly select our candidates, so there will be no necessity of holding the Convention at Charleston, and our delegates may save the expense and trouble of the trip. We suppose the next step will be for Congress to take the election out of the hands of the people, and save the country the excitement and turmoil of a heated presidential contest. The only question is, whether the people will justify the disinterested labors of these volunteers, and tolerate the assumption of power they seem disposed to exercise. Our opinion is, they will not; they will probably prefer to manage their own affairs in their own way, and may even be ungrateful enough to intimate to them kind-hearted philanthropists that it would be well for them also to attend to their own business and confine themselves to it; or it may become necessary to allow them to retire to private life, and leave their places to be filled by other and less efficient persons.

Another Car Load of the best Ohio Stone.—Crock-las arrived at the great China Store of H N Ward, on Calhoun Street; also, a large invoice of wall paper—a good style is selling at 75 cents per bolt. He is selling looking glasses cheaper by 50 per cent than ever before offered in this city.

This house, one day last week, sent over 50 boxes of tea sets and dinner ware to different points. His connection with the manufacturers in England enables Ward to sell the best goods at the lowest prices, and is the reason his fame as a wholesale dealer, is spreading so rapidly. He also keeps a large stock of common ware and glass ware.

North Carolina.—The Democratic State Convention did not express any choice for the Presidency, or instruct the delegates. The resolutions were mainly to state affairs; the only one having reference to the presidential question being one reaffirming the doctrine of non-interference, by Congress, with slavery in the Territories.

A majority of the delegates are said to be friendly to Douglas, but will in the first instance support Hunter preferring a southern man for candidate. If Hunter can not be nominated, a majority of the delegates will then go for Douglass.

The Washington Republic has suspended and so has the New Era, long the national organ of the Abolition wing of the Republicans. There is some talk of starting a new republican organ at Washington out of the ruins of the two suspended papers. Defrees' daily Atlas at Indianapolis having also fizzled out, it is not improbable that John D. Defrees, who is connected with Ford in his congressional printing contract, may assume the management of the new organ.

Disgraceful Stand.—We copy from the Washington Correspondence of the Clipper the following notice of a slander promulgated by the Washington papers that the Indians delegation to Charleston would disobey the instructions of their constituents, and not vote for Douglass. There is no shadow of truth in it. Indiana democrats recognize the right of instruction, and any delegate who should betray the trust reposed in him, would assuredly by so doing sign his own political death warrant.

"A most disgraceful attempt is being made by the Administration combination to induce the delegates from Indiana to violate the instructions of their constituents. It has long been known that the clique which now controls the party wires would not hesitate to resort to any trick to secure their end, but no one believed they would attempt to overthrow the cardinal principle of Democracy, which yields to the people the right have their wishes carried into effect by their representatives."

Having received this in full higher sources, I have not voted for Douglass at Charleston, and now understand that they are not bound to do so notwithstanding the fact is well known.

"This is merely another of the unscrupulous acts of those who are attempting to influence them to fear, and would not be worth noticing except to hold it up to the scorn and execration of all true Democrats. The Indiana delegates at Fort Wayne, and that is the reason why they are not more fully represented by worn out politicians and wire-pullers."

A Long Congressional Session.—It is thought the present session of Congress will not terminate before July next in view of the fact that a 20 days' recess will be taken to allow the members to attend the National Conventions.

We see no necessity for Congress taking a recess to allow members to go to the Charleston Convention. They are not needed, nor have they any business there. The Convention can do its own business without the interference of Congressmen, and we go in for Congressional non-interference most decidedly. The members had better remain at Washington and attend to their own legitimate duties.

Alleged Thieves Arrested.—A gang of young marauders who have long been pattering from the railroad cars and from the residences of our citizens have been discovered here, and a portion of them arrested. From ten to dozen boys, the tender age of 12 to 17 years, are implicated. In possession of one of them a carpet sack was found, containing a silver fork marked "W.", a silver spoon, and several plated forks marked "Forte Hall," all doubtless stolen.

Martial Price arrested five of the young desperados, and they have been tried before a special term of the Common Pleas Court.

Thus Golden, Benjamin Fennimore, and Wm Dixon, all boys from 12 to 14 years old, pleaded guilty on a charge of stealing 20 racoon skins from a car on the railroad. In consideration of the extreme youth of the parties, and the manifest improvidence of sending such children to the penitentiary, where they would become hardened by contact with other criminals, the Judge sentenced Gold to only one day's imprisonment in the county jail; Fennimore to one hour, and Dixon to three hours' imprisonment.

Louis Shewell was tried for receiving the above named racoon skins, and for larceny, and was acquitted.

Henry Corl, aged 17, was convicted of stealing a beef hide, and sent to the penitentiary for one year.

It is to be hoped that the detection of these miscreants may break the gang lead, and thereby lead to the abandonment of their evil courses, and hereafter lead a better and more honest life. A house of refuge for such offenders is much needed.

Jail Delivery.—This morning, a little before daylight, four prisoners made their escape from our county jail. Their names are—Henry Corl, Jacob Bush, Asa Creape, and John Hoffman.

By some means or other they appear to have got out of the cells, and then picking a hole through the loose stone outer wall of the building, under one of the windows, made their exit.

The slate a slot being fastened between the boards to prevent injury to the slates. One member recommended dispensing with earth up altogether, stating that they would blast fast enough when packed away in the cellar.

Cellery.—The President stated that he had succeeded in getting it through the winter, by taking it up in the fall, allowing it to lay in the sun until well dried, and then packing it round downwards in dry sand. In this way it continued to grow all winter.

An enquiry was made as to the cause of rust, earthing up while the ground was wet, was given as the usual cause. The slate is the best material for blinding—another advised placing boards against the sides of the slate a slot being fastened between the boards to prevent injury to the slates. One member recommended dispensing with earth up altogether, stating that they would blast fast enough when packed away in the cellar.

What does all that signify? The fact stated will not hurt Bates in the estimation of Republican Abolitionists. We had a trial of that in Ohio. Judge Cheson had been made out a great philanthropist, having as was asserted great balsas on account of his detestation of the system of slavery. It was afterward proved that instead of freeing him, he had sold his slaves and pocketed the proceeds; yet the Republicans from the deepest black to the lightest brown put off with him as a martyr—C. Eng.

St. Patrick's Day.—This is the anniversary of the Patron Saint of Ireland. The St. Patrick's School Society observe the day by a grand procession, and other proceeding, and will exhibit the magnificent new banner painted for them by one of the first artists in Cincinnati, which we have already noticed.

This evening Father Valency will deliver a lecture at Colerick's Hall, in the Inherent School, of Man, for the benefit of the School Society. Admittance 25 cents.—Lecture to commence at half past seven o'clock.

Fort Wayne Machine Works.—We direct attention of all requiring machinery of any description, steam engines, boilers, saw-mills, &c., castings or iron work, to the advertisement of the Fort Wayne Machine Works, formerly Jones & Bass' Foundry. These works are under the superintendence of skilful, practical men, thoroughly acquainted with the principles of their business, and will give entire satisfaction to all who entrust their orders to the establishment. We are pleased to notice the inauguration of such an establishment, under such auspices among us. It is another proof of the rapid strides our city is making towards commercial and manufacturing importance, and will add much to its wealth, prosperity, and population. We hope the enterprise may prove abundantly successful and profitable to the stockholders, and that the Fort Wayne Machine Works may steadily and rapidly increase in business and reputation, until they equal the most flourishing establishments in other cities.

Another Car Load of the best Ohio Stone.—We notice Lanceford has got up a splendid new sign at his saddlery store, which is as ornate as his good taste, and highly creditable to the artistic skill of the painter. We inquiry we learn it was painted by O. L. Jones. Those who want a good job of sign painting will surely succeed if they call on him.

The only question is, whether the people will justify the disinterested labors of these volunteers, and tolerate the assumption of power they seem disposed to exercise. Our opinion is, they will not; they will probably prefer to manage their own affairs in their own way, and may even be ungrateful enough to intimate to them kind-hearted philanthropists that it would be well for them also to attend to their own business and confine themselves to it; or it may become necessary to allow them to retire to private life, and leave their places to be filled by other and less efficient persons.

Another Car Load of the best Ohio Stone.—Crock-las arrived at the great China Store of H N Ward, on Calhoun Street; also, a large invoice of wall paper—a good style is selling at 75 cents per bolt. He is selling looking glasses cheaper by 50 per cent than ever before offered in this city.

This house, one day last week, sent over 50 boxes of tea sets and dinner ware to different points. His connection with the manufacturers in England enables Ward to sell the best goods at the lowest prices, and is the reason his fame as a wholesale dealer, is spreading so rapidly. He also keeps a large stock of common ware and glass ware.

North Carolina.—The Democratic State Convention did not express any choice for the Presidency, or instruct the delegates. The resolutions were mainly to state affairs; the only one having reference to the presidential question being one reaffirming the doctrine of non-interference, by Congress, with slavery in the Territories.

Accommodating.—It is rumored that the Democratic Members of Congress met in caucus on Tuesday evening, and decided that Breckinridge would be the candidate for President, and Ex-Governor Seymour, of New York, for Vice President. This is certainly very accommodating in these gentlemen; the Senate has already decided on a platform for the party, and now the Representatives kindly select our candidates, so there will be no necessity of holding the Convention at Charleston, and our delegates may save the expense and trouble of the trip. We suppose the next step will be for Congress to take the election out of the hands of the people, and save the country the excitement and turmoil of a heated presidential contest. ## Fort Wayne Sentinel.

Circulate the Documents!

In view of the great importance of having correct information circulated among the people previous to the election, we propose to furnish the Sentinel for the campaign, from the present time until after the Presidential election in November, at the reduced rate of Sixty-Five Cents a copy—payment in advance.

We ask the co-operation of our democratic friends throughout the country in extending their circulation, feeling confident that in no other way can they better aid the success of the democratic cause. Three or four hundred additional subscribers might be obtained if every one of our present number would make the effort and urge his neighbors to subscribe. We will allow a commision of 10 per cent. on all amounts paid us by those who choose to interest themselves in our behalf.

Proposed Change of the Nation's Capital to Baltimore.—Going to the limited hotel accommodations at Charleston, and the difficulty, if not impossibility, of recompromising, or boarding the vast array of persons expected at the Democratic Convention, it is in contemplation to hold the Convention in Baltimore. The plan propounded, is to have an informal meeting at Charleston, and adjourn to Baltimore. This we think advisable, as it would be impossible for the attendees, at the convention to find quarters at Charleston, and it also appears that the most exorbitant charges would be made—from $7.00 to $10.00 per day, a sum of board, and $20.00 to $25.00 extra for a parlor or sitting room. Besides this, the people of South Carolina do not appear likely holding National Convention, and it is only reasonable that they endeavored to send delegates, or take any part in the proceeding. It was a great mistake to select Charleston in the place where we think the proposed change desirable and convenient.

A Committee appointed by the National Democratic Committee, is now in Baltimore making the necessary inquiries and accommodations, charges, &c. The hotel keepers promises to provide for all who come, at the regular rate of charge, besides which they well know how likely it is that General orders the opening of their doors to all who come, to adequately accommodate at the hotel. Let the Convention be held at Baltimore, or some other city large enough to accommodate the vast crowd who will be in attendance.

The City of Springfield.—The Republicans are now busy engagin in raising the cry of corruption in the Democratic party, and hope thereby to catch the vote of many honest, upstanding men, who, no opposed to official extravagance and corruption—and, as the same time arrest a little over scrupling of their own acts, whenever and wherever they have been in power. It was the Republicans who overwhelmed their State in debt and difficulty, and brought it to the verge of bankruptcy, when they were in power in Indiana, and they are now the loudest in the cry of Democratic corruption and extravagance. This is the old stop thief game which that party is so celebrated for playing, and which they always engage in when they are afraid of their own past history may be too rigidly inquired into.

In the political history of the Republican party, says the Boston Courier—there has been one most remarkable fact, which is, while that party has been professedly dedicated to a mixture of chicanery and meanness, agitation of the slaves, quarrel, and discord among the states, it has under cover of that agitation, been guilty of the most frank and wholesale corruption in the management of those State Governments of which, by means of that agitation, it has obtained the control. Maine, Massachusetts, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, are but examples among others, which constantly occur to the memory. It would seem as if all that was corrupt in society in the northern states had conspired to mask its mercenary purpose by dividing attention from things at home in a glorious assault upon our fellow citizens of the southern states. The intention of all conservative men has long been fixed upon this as one of the most glaring incidents of the present political condition of the southern states.

Accommodating.—It is rumored that the Democratic Members of Congress just in caucus on Tuesday evening, and decided that Braden would be the candidate for President, and Ex-Governor Seymour, of New York, Vice President. This is certainly very accommodating in these gentlemen; the Senate has already decided on a platform for the party, and now the Representatives kindly select our candidates, so there will be no necessity of holding the convention at Charleston, and our delegates may save the expense and trouble of the trip. We suppose the next step will be, for Congress to elect also out of the hands of the people, and set the country the experiment and turmoil of a heated presidential contest. The only question is, whether the people will jostle and appropriate the unrepresented labor of these valiant men, and tolerate the assumption of power, which they appear to exercise. Our opinion is, they will not; they will probably prefer to manage their own affairs in their own way, and may even "go along" enough, to let them, to these kind-hearted philanthropists, that it would be well for them also to attend to their own business, and confine themselves to it, if it may become necessary to allow them to return to private life, and leave their places to be filled by other and less efficacious persons.

North Carolina.—The Democratic State Convention did not express any choice for the Presidency, or instant the duly done over. The resolutions refer mainly to state affairs; that only one having reference to the presidential question being the re-affirming the doctrine of non-interference, by Congress, with slavery in the Territories.

A majority of the delegates are said to be friendly to Douglas, but will in the first instance support Hunter, preferring a southern man for candidate. If Hunter can not be nominated, a majority of the delegates will then go for Douglass.

The Washington Republic has suspended and so does the New Era, long the national organ of the abolition wing of the Republican party. There is some talk of starting a new republican organ at Washington out of the ruins of the two suspended papers. Defects daily. At last Indianapolis having also fledged out, it is not improbable that John D. Duane, who is connected with Ford in his congressional printing contract, may assume the management of the new organ.

Biographical Slander.—We copy from the Washington Correspondence of the Citizen the following notice of a slander pronounced by the Washington papers that the Indiana delegation to Charleston would disperse the instructions of their constituents, and not vote for Douglas. There is no shadow of truth in it, Indiana democrats recognize the right of instruction, and my delegate who should thus betray the trust reposed in him, would assuredly do so, doing his own political death warrant.

"A most disgraceful attempt is being made by the Administration combination to induce the delegates from Indiana to disregard the instructions of their constituents. It has long been known that the clique which now controls the party wires would not hesitate to resort to any trick to secure their ends," but no one ever believed they would attempt to overthrow the democratic party of Indiana which yields in the public right to the rights of the slaves carried to effect for their representatives.

"The Washington Star of Saturday last, having received a large lot of new Books and Statuary, Music and Musical Instruments, &c., which he invites public attention, and proposes to sell at the lowest rates."

Commented.

Mr. Editor:—Permit me to enquire, through the columns of the "Sentinel," how is it, that of twenty or thirty aspirants to office, in this County, only one or two have attended the meetings of the "Young Men's Democratic Club?" Yet these very aspirants have and expect to receive the support of the young men composing this Club, and the nothings, whether he may be, will come before the Democrats and say he has "always been on hand, and ready." I would inquire how it is, that the present innumerate in office, and the men who claim to carry the Democratic victory of Allen County, on their shoulders are not yet, when the victory is gained, to whom victory is due, they will stand in the ranks and claim their portion of the victory—ever, even now. Away with such pretended Democracy! The time is at hand when all should be at work. The money are on the alert in the political battle field, and as no humble member of the Democratic Club, I would call every one who claims to be a Democrat, to come forward and spend an hour or two on one evening in the week, and consult together over the great principles of Democracy. The members of the Club had pledged themselves to support the nomination of the "old-line" Convention, but have not as yet, promised to support the re-nomination of Allen County. We write him in the great cause of Democracy, and will invece note in these pages. It is well known that all men have their preference, take heed—be on hand.

"This is merely another of the ungrateful acts of those who are attempting to influence men they fear, and would not be worth noticing except to hold it up to the scorn and execration of all true Democrats. The Indiana delegates to the Constitutional Convention, will be held in high regard by Douglass, and that is the reason why they are so unjustly misrepresented by worn out politicians and wind-puffers."

A Long Congressional Session.—It is thought the present session of Congress will not terminate before July next in view of the fact that a 20 days recess will be taken to allow the members to attend the National Conventions.

There is no necessity for Congress taking a recess to allow members to go to the Charleston Convention. They are not needed, nor have they any business there. The Convention can do its own business without the interference of Congressmen, and we go in for Congressional non-interference most decidedly. The members had better remain at Washington and attend to their own legitimate duties.

Allen County Horticultural Society.—Allen Co. Hort. Soc. Robbie, March 10, 1860.

President Nelson is in the chair; minutes read and approved.

E. F. Colbeck was elected a member of the society.

Fair of Exhibition.

E. P. Randall—Linen, &c., failed by himself large size and well matured, a specimen surpassing in appearance most of the imported linens.

Rockville's Syrian Apple.

Mr. Rockwell called attention of the meeting to an article in the Indiana Farmer, from Mr. Loomis, respecting the Rockville Syrian Apple. Mr. Loomis therein referred to the fact that the tree name of the Apple is Early Red Major. As far as the opinion of the apple could be taken under such circumstances, in presence of the fruit itself, Mr. Rockwell would leave the matter to the more expert reputation that Loomis has. The rock had won the apple at market, but it was not ripe, and the season of Michigan may last, or a change has been going on in the minds of the distinguished and distinguished gentlemen who have as completely studied themselves in regard to their public and private pledges and written reports.

If Governor Willard made the ledge attributed to him by the Fort Wayne Sentinel, it would be interesting to have a meeting of citizens of the different parts at which the location was promised, and Willard there.

The whole business of locating the Benicia is his best ploy, or far more consumable. These officials were appointed by another official on account of their fitness, to locate a post office as to prevent the best interests of the State. They have been to the State of San Joaquin, located individuals, and a present and maintenance of duty, the pledges and example of their constituents, and Governor has been compelled to take this step, in the interest of the State here grossly neglected.

We are in a Michigan City paper, a defense of the State talk for a year, while the interests of the United States did not answer. General Colton was present and ready for trial, but as the court preferred a postponement until the next term, the second Monday in July was immediately fixed on that day on which the case would be proceeded with.

Washington, Mar. 12.

The Penitentiary.—The celebrated Chinese Juggler and Oriental Artist, Dr. Moig and Ar. Bob, give an exhibition of their wonderful skill, at Colerick's Hall, this afternoon, for families and school. The performers will be reported on Monday and Tuesday, afternoon and evening. Admittance, 25 cents; children 15 cents.

We have heard these performers very highly spoken of, and presume they will give entire satisfaction to all who attend. The Chinese are widely celebrated for their skill in juggling and exhibit wonderful dexterity in such performances.

CHARLES HILL is now opening a beautiful stock of Paper Hangings, from one of the best manufacturers in the Union, and of the newest and richest patterns. Ladies would do well to call and examine them.

He has also received a large lot of new Books and Statuary, Music and Musical Instruments, &c., which he invites public attention, and proposes to sell at the lowest rates.
